Ron Michalski, Tighe & Bond engineer, said that his firm would conduct the survey if the application is approved and that should be known by January 1981. The town has already approved $10,000 to be expended with the grant money for the survey. The survey would take about 7 months and would include inspection of the homes in town now served by individual septic systems. The federal government is now mainly concerned with the upgrading of such septic systems and in some cases consolidation of systems. The possibility of repairing or replacing these systems will be studied as an alternative to the extension of the central sewer system. This study is needed so that the Selectmen as Sewer Commissioners can estimate Mattapoisett's future potential sewer main extensions in order to inform Fairhaven of the town's future needs at the treatment plant located there. Mattapoisett officials must inform Fairhaven within the next 6 months of how much capacity the town will need at the treatment plant for the next 21 years. Chairman Blasdale said, "This program is truly vital". Selectmen decided that future meetings should include the Board of Health.

PUMPING STATION

Selectmen, Water Commissioners and Mr. Michalski discussed the sewer pumping station. Michalski said that Robert Shaw has worked on the flow recorder. Charles Morgan, who oversees the operation of the sewer system, said that the flow recorder still does not record in accuracy of within 7 or 8% and he has no confidence that it will improve. Michalski said that 2 more weeks of operating data should establish if the recorder will work and give an accurate reading of the flow. A two-week deadline was also given to pump vibration correction and some missing nuts and bolts.

TIE-IN DEADLINES

Selectmen recently voted to extend the tie-in deadline from July 1, 1980 to September 1, 1980 for village homes because of the time element. They did not want to put unreasonable pressure on homeowners who have shown good faith and are on local contractors' lists for tie-ins. Acting on request of multiple homeowners (those individuals owning 5 homes or more) it was decided that half of these properties must be connected by the first frost of 1980 and the balance by May 30, 1981.

ASKS FOR CONNECTION TO SEWER

Frank Sylvia appeared before the Selectmen in their capacity as Sewer Commissioners and requested a sewer connection from the present termination point in the highway to a point behind Nick's Pizza on Upland Way where he plans construction of an office. Selectmen said that they would look favorably only on an extension of the main to terminate in a manhole on Upland Way and that any such construction would have to be privately financed before the state resurfaces Route 6. The Selectmen said that the town has no money for such work. Once the state has surfaced the highway, they said, it is very unlikely that they will allow it to be opened for sewer work.

SOLUTIONS AIRED AT MEETING

A discussion between complainants and Mattapoisett Inn owner Marc Goddu terminated in a friendly handshake after a very complete airing of the problems of both neighbors and the management of the establishment. Goddu said that the Sunday that led to the complaint to Selectmen about excessive noise had been unfortunate in that one of the air conditioners, in the room where many people were gathered to hear Couto & Mulligan featured by the Inn, had broken down. As Goddu was occupied in the bar area, patrons kept opening windows, he stated, to relieve the buildup of heat on a very humid night. This plus the fact that the 2-man band is amplified to create an exciting performance that aims at audience participation led to the escape of noise.

In the course of the discussion two principal problems emerged. Howard Bates who lives to the west and Robert Wenstrom, who lives on the east side of the Inn, said they would like the music subdued to be contained within the Inn and would like people leaving at late hours not to converse loudly in the street.

Goddu explained that the Inn has never had a call for a disturbance and he wants no trouble with the neighbors. To avoid that possibility, he had insulated the west wall where any noise is more likely to be heard. He said that he is required by law to have a rear door and that sometimes it is used to exit in spite of his best efforts. He estimated that 50% of the noise in the area is from people enjoying the wharf activities who are not patrons of his establishment. He stated the wharf is a festive part of the town with band concerts, teen dances and square dances and is an attraction for people to enjoy the activity and the air. He stated that when people are in the open, particularly when the hour is late, sound carries more easily.

Chairman R. William Blasdale pledged that the Selectmen would help by asking that the cruiser be in the area at closing so that a quiet exit might be encouraged. He stated that, in his own experience, he found that the music was louder than it had to be and asked that the level be lowered. Blasdale summed up the situation with the statement that the solution rests in the good faith of the owner.

Letter to the Editor

NOTICE FROM THE FIRE CHIEF

Now that the heating season is just around the corner I would like to take this opportunity to remind all residents and homeowners to take advantage of the warm weather to have their heating systems checked and chimneys cleaned, before the start of cold weather.

The use of portable kerosene heaters in any building which is used in whole or in part for human habitation is in violation of Section 25A and 25B of Chapter 148 of the Massachusetts General Laws which also prohibits the sale of used portable heaters. A fine of $100.00 is possible for violation of these rules.

One more reminder for your safety is to install smoke detectors now. A smoke detector installed will give you an early warning of fire and give you and your family time to escape. Smoke detectors are not expensive and are simple to install. A Massachusetts Law to take effect in 1982 will require all homes to be so equipped upon resale and all others in 1983.

If you should be unfortunate to have a fire or smoke condition in your home do not delay in calling the Fire Department. Two or three minutes could mean the difference between a minor blaze or a total loss.

creatures crawling along the ocean floor? Or have you ever wanted to be able to identify shore birds or shells found on the beach? A trip to the beach can be an educational experience as well as relief from the heat! The Children's Museum will take a beach walk this Saturday morning, August 23rd, at 10:00 a.m., open to all ages, free.

SATURDAY PROGRAM - AUGUST 23rd

Anyone traveling through Russells Mills in Dartmouth recently may have seen some playful Nubian goats frolicking in their pen at the Silveira's farm. The Children's Museum will visit the goats on Saturday, August 23rd, at 2:00 p.m. The trip is open to all ages and those interested should call the Museum and then meet at 1:30 in the Museum Outdoors parking lot. We will visit the Billy goats, Nanny goats and their kids and among other things, learn why they are called Nubian goats and why the Silveiras raise them. Please join us for this ever popular field trip to the Silveira's goat farm. There is a small admission charge. The number to call is 993-3361.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

It is with sincere appreciation that I commend and thank all of the firefighters, police, employees, medical people and all others who successfully participated in our recent tank fire.

It is an indication that however bad a situation may look at first, cooperation and leadership are, most times, the difference between defeat and victory.

While our physical loss is extensive, the fact that no serious personal injuries or fatalities occurred is a blessing.

We also would like to thank the surrounding communities for their patience and understanding during this fire.

All of this was taking place while the Canal generating plant and its maximum output were contributing to new electric peaks in New England without skipping a beat.

Thanks again for all your help and cooperation.

The most exciting match of the afternoon was played in the Intermediate Men's Division where Mike Crowe and Bob Kelsey edged the team of Jim Lanagan and Jack Risgin by the score of 12-10. Long rallies and sharp volleying held the attention of the spectators.

Strong positional play and superb shot making brought the Burr brothers, Toby and Walter, a decisive 10-1 victory over Ray Carvalho and Bob Hohne in the Men's Advanced.

The afternoon of tennis was brought to a close by the playing of the Mixed Divisions where the Intermediate team of Jan and

FLEET BLESSING

IT WAS A FESTIVE OCCASION FOR THE REVITALIZED NEW BEDFORD DOCKS AS BOAT OWNERS FESTOONED THEIR CRAFT WITH FLAGS, BUNTING AND FLOWERS TO JOIN THE HARBOR PARADE FOR THE 1980 BLESSING. FAMILIES OF THE VARIOUS SKIPPERS AND CREWS JOINED IN THE DECORATION AND THE BANQUETS PREPARED ON DECK. THE DOCK PARK CONTINUES IN THE BUILDING PROCESS AS PAVING FOUNTAINS AND WALKWAYS APPEAR TO MAKE A FORMER RUN-DOWN FACILITY INTO AN ATTRACTION FOR TOURISTS AND NEW BEDFORD RESIDENTS ALIKE.

"Steering a Trick"

STEERING MY FIRST "TRICK AT SEA"

An account found in an old writing book from the attic of Jonathan H. Holmes, Shipbuilder, author unknown; given by Lydia Walker to Brad Hathaway and loaned to us. Continued:

The gale was upon us, with all its fury, waving, whistling, over the sea, and through the rigging, the cloud enshrouding the ocean about us so densely that we could see but a short distance from the ship; the sea surging and hissing up against her bulwarks, as she sped furiously on before the blast. Every man on deck was silent, and stood watching with eager intentness, the Captain as he moved slowly backwards step by step nearer to the helmsman, with his eyes upon the sails, then peering into the darkness, as if he would penetrate to its center to learn its intent, he quietly orders the helmsman to "keep her steady", then assuming his walk back and forth on the deck as he passed me he remarked, "This will be short, but sharp".

The sun had not yet gone down, though the heavens were completely blackened, and the darkness seemed to shut down upon us so densely, as to almost feel it oppressing. Standing by the gangway leading to the main deck the Captain had called the orders in quick succession for taking in the foresail; seeming to anticipate the event, the sailors had moved around to the proper positions, and hardly had the words left the Captain's mouth before they were being executed. Never, never worked with better will or stronger purpose - Their shouting as they pulled at the ropes, the calling of orders by officers, the howling of the gale made a din which added to the fearful roaring of the wind and waves and the appalling darkness, combined to make a scene beyond the powers of description.

The Captain had taken the wheel from the sailor, and sent him forward to help the others, when suddenly came a report like the slam of a door, only a thousand times louder. I looked aloft expecting to see the foremast tumbling upon me, when I felt my arm seized by a powerful grasp, my body swung around and forced along by the Captain, who shouted in my ear, "Take the wheel-Keep her full" and he rushed forward. Seizing the wheel with all my power I looked up just in time to see him disappearing in the blackness of darkness that enveloped the forward part of the ship, entirely shutting out everything forward of the mainmast from my ability to penetrate, down the stairs leading to the main deck. He seemed to enter a cloud so abruptly was he lost to sight. The full comprehension of my position rushed upon me instantly, a tremor crept over my nerves, as I instinctively tightened my grasp upon the spokes of the wheel, and settled myself to obey his mandate.

I could not shut my eyes to the sense of awe which pervaded me, alone on the deck of that ship, at the wheel, which I could not leave, no matter how strong the impulse to do so might be, from any accident that should take place, the elements vying with each other to do their worst. The sea black and menacing, rolling in huge waves to the very top of the rail, then breaking into a white seething, sizzling mass, rushing along past the ship like some maddened monster showing its open jaws and gnashing teeth awaiting his own pleasure when he would use them to engulf us; the wind driving, howling, shrieking through the shrouds and rigging as if to add the din of Hades to the scene. Occasionally the sound of the sailors shouting to each other could be heard above the din of the elements, which surrounded me, but to catch a glimpse of anything forward of the mainmast was impossible, and rendered even this unintelligible assurance of their presence, all the more encouraging to the deserted end of the ship which I alone occuped. I tried in vain to conjecture what had caused the loud report I had heard or what emergency could have arisen to have caused the Captain to entrust me with so important a task as to take the helm of the ship under such circumstances. The terror of the surrounding scene seemed to nerve me to the duty so suddenly imposed upon me as I felt the strain upon the wheel calling for all my strength to meet it, bracing my feet more securely upon the grating, and meeting the roll of the ship as the waves lifted her up, or let her down in passing under her.

Casting my eye aloft to the narrow strip of canvass to which the main topsail was reduced, for my guide in obeying the abrupt injunction of the Captain to "keep her full", the responsibility of the situation, and the import of the order thrust themselves deeply into my mind and strengthened my nerve to execute the order, for I then realized the fate of all depended on it, for had I, by any inability or calmlessness allowed the ship to "broach to" in that sea the consequences could but have been fatal. It was no easy task to hold that wheel, for it had not to be held firmly in one position, but constantly kept turning exhibit, entitled "Contemporary Washington State Artists," is one of several month-long exhibitions being displayed at Cranberry World during the 1980 season.

The exhibit will be staged in the center's "Cranberry Gallery". Visitors are also invited to view Cranberry World's colorful array of artifacts, memorabilia, photo montages, audio-visual presentations, and a cranberry bog diorama, which help illustrate the more than 300-year history of cranberries.

Another special exhibit salutes the birth of the Ocean Spray cooperative and the lifestyles of the year 1930. The center also offers delicious recipes that can be sampled free, and regularly scheduled cooking demonstrations.

Surrounded by three working bogs, Cranberry World is located on Water Street, a quarter-mile from Plymouth Rock and the Mayflower II. Free shuttle bus service is available between these attractions and the visitors center, which is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. until November 30.

Further information and group reservations may be obtained by writing Cranberry World Visitors Center, Water Street, Plymouth, Mass. 02360, or by calling 747-1000/2350.
